

The Playful Pony and The Swimming Swordfish

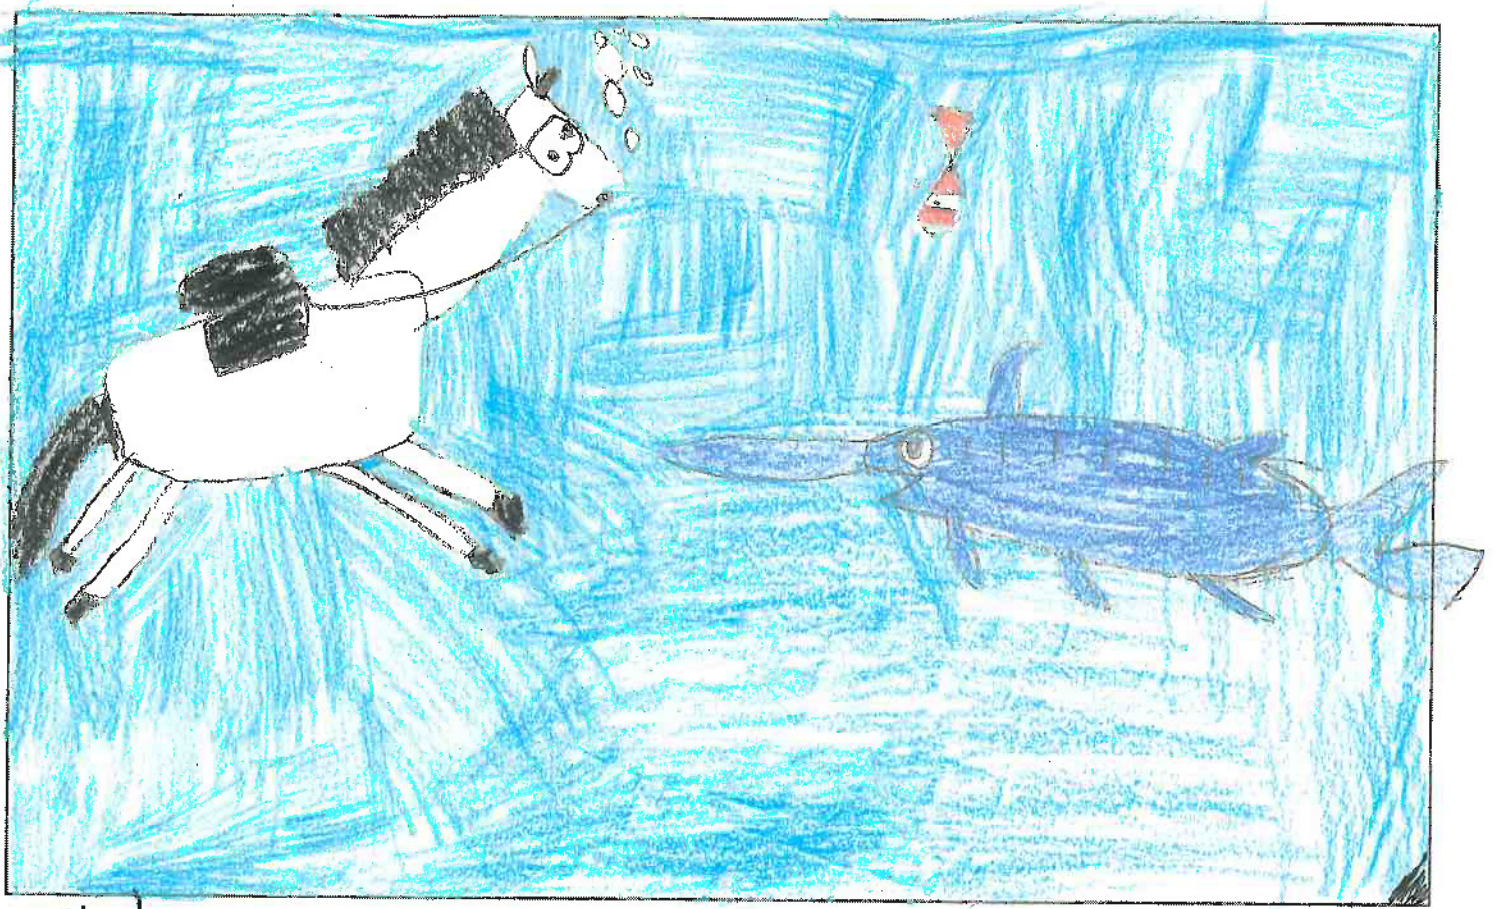

Written by Abigail Wharton

There was a pretty pony with white fur and a black mane named Sunset.

She and her pony friends decided to take a trip to the Atlantic Ocean. Summer drove the truck with her human named Lydia in the front and her pony friends in the trailer behind them.

The ponies went scuba diving and met a swordfish and became friends; his name was Pokey.

Pokey visited the beach with the porpies and they poured water on Pokey to keep him safe. They built sand castles, dug for treasure and shells with his long bill. They also played with seagulls and crabs.

The animals heard their moms calling them home so they split up and went home but always remained friends. They Proved That anyone can become friends though they are different.

The End