

One day a bird was flying high. It noticed the dirt below was lonely. The bird loved the dirt, so it shared its grass seeds.

Thanks to the bird, the dirt wasn't lonely anymore. The dirt was grateful for the seeds, so it gave them a hug and covered them.

Then the clouds came out to play. They were full of water and didn't want it to go to waste. So, the clouds decided to share.

Next, the sun came out. It saw that the clouds shared more than enough water to help the seeds grow and now the dirt was about to lose the seeds.

The sun loved that the dirt was no longer lonely and didn't want it to lose the seeds. So, the sun blew its heat over the water and helped dry up the extra. Now, the seeds were covered by the dirt, again.

The seeds were so happy to be hugged by the dirt, again, that they grew big and strong and became tall green grass. Thanks to LOVE, the bird, dirt, clouds, sun, and grass all lived happily ever after together.

The End.
